BELLEFONTE, PA.,

Wednesday Morning, May 3, 1871.

PENNSYLVANIA AS SHE IS SEEN THROUGH THE SERVICES OF ONE OF HER MOST DISTINGUISHED SONS.

Now that Congress has adjourned and the labors of the Republican majority in both branches, have resulted in so much good to the country, we deem it a fitting period to say a word in reference to a Pennsylvanian who reflects so much of the glory of his native State in the councils of the nation. We allude to the position of General Simon Cameron, now more prominent before the country than any man in the U. S. Senate. From 1860 to the present hour, General Cameron has been a target for the attacks of all the malignant men of his own, as well as all the black-guards of the opposite party. And why has this been the case? The answer is simple: He is a strong man in all he does. When he resolves to do a certain act to accomplish some just design in the name of the Republican party, or realize an aspiration of his own, he never stops on the way to trifle, but marches forward direct to the object in view. He never dreams nor indulges in any theories. His speeches are brief and his arguments terse. As a consequence, the performances of such a man are vigorous and aggressive, full of the boldness which strikes terror to the hearts of the timid and fills with confusion those of the corrupt. During the administration of the lamented Lincoln, no man gave it more vigor or inspired it with more courage than its first Secretary of War. He originated the idea which eventually made the war for the Union a success. Mr. Lincoln never would have proclaimed emancipation had General Cameron hesitated to enlist and arm the colored man. It was that bold act which gave birth to the freedom of the black man, and deny it who may, freedom for the American slave was salvation for the American Union. Gen. Cameron knew when he proposed to advocate emancipation as a war measure, in his first report, that he would call down on his head the hatred of a large portion of his own, and of the entire Democratic party. But the Scotch Irish tenacity which marks all his acts only made him more zealous. A majority of Lincoln's first Cabinet struck that memorable passage from Cameron's report; but this shrinking from a bold avowal did not affect the power of liberty.

When the Pope and his cardinals forced Galileo to renounce the theory of the earth's motion the old philosopher feebly complied, but instantly exclaimed, "What if I do recant my heresy; the earth still moves." So it was with those who thought they had stifled the spirit of liberty when they expunged its defense from Cameron's report. The act did not affect the eternal principle. It did not daunt the brave war minister who then fearlessly defended it, but freedom like the earth's motion, sublime in its progress still moves on.

Senator Cameron, then true to the right has never since faltered in its defence. He never surrenders the right. Let any man take his recorded Congressional career and we defy him to lay his finger on a single act that will show recreancy to his country, his state, or his party. It is a good time to refer to this subject now when General Cameron's attitude and acts are so extensively reviewed in this country and in England, as legislator, as constitutional advisor, and as diplomat. The documentary proof is all clear as to his faithful acts and distinguished services.

Pennsylvania never had a Senator his equal in zeal for all her interests. She may have had men of more brilliant attainments, but as a practical thinker and as doer of useful work she has never had a Senator the equal of Simon Cameron. He may be deficient as an orator and a debator, so was the Duke of Wellington who never made a speech, and yet he was classed among England's safest statesmen. The Earl of Worwick was no wrangler in debate but he was a power behind the British throne, mightier than the throne itself.

History repeats itself. The best vindication of General Cameron's power is his popularity with every Republican administration since the organization of the party. Mr. Lincoln always had unbounded confidence in his judgment and never himself questioned, nor allowed others to question his integrity. Andrew Johnson from the first did not trust Cameron. This was natural. General Cameron did not trust Johnson and the latter knew it. He opposed his nomination for the Vice Presidency because he had no faith in his loyalty. Events have demonstrated with startling effect how true this estimate was of the great apostate. Johnson was a traitor and Cameron always treated him as such. Hence the aversion which grew up between them; but the moment we have a genuine Republican administration, General Cameron is recognized as a supporter necessary to its success. Events daily demonstrate this fact. They are honorable to Pennsylvania because the man identified therewith is the representative of our State and recognition alike by the President and the majority of his colleagues in the Senate, show that he is a leader and a counsellor acceptable to those occupying the highest stations in the country. When the Senate resolved that its power should not be wielded to embarass the President, and that no one man would be tolerated in a scheme to disrupt the Republican organization General Cameron is selected from among that grave array of intellect to be its leader in co-operating with the chief magistrate for the glory and good of the Union.

The Senate was not forced to do this thing. In the caucus where such results are fixed, men are only taken into account according to the confidence which they command. General Cameron was put forward because his colleagues could rely on his steadfastness as well as on his patriotism. He did not intrigue, beg or barter for the chairmanship on the committee on Foreign Relations, but to that as to all the positions he has ever held, he was called because he could be trusted as a man; and to be trusted now-a-days is the highest compliment which any man can desire. To be trusted to by the Republicans of the U. S. Senate, is a compliment which testifies to true greatness, and leaves no room to doubt the man's qualities who possesses that confidence. It may be, that General Cameron is not a classical scholar, that he has never studied international law; but he does understand what the American people want, and he knows to a certainty how to interpret their wishes and advance their interests. He knows how to contribute to their victory in war and their prosperity in peace. His acts are those of a man who studies the present, that he may provide for the future rather than to delve in the musty lore of the past for precedents by which to guide his actions. He is of the nature that delights to make instead of follow a precedent.

This much we deem due to our distinguished and faithful Senator. The time has gone by to submit in silence to assaults on his character. He is the property of the Republicans of Pennsylvania—their fearless leader, who is never more effective than when serving them, and now as he stands forth reflecting crdit and securing benefit on his party and for his State, it would be base ingratitude not to acknowledge his services, and arrant cowardice to shrink from defending his fair fame.

While the Republican party lives in the Keystone State, and while we have a government for that party to administer, the name of Simon Cameron will be cherished in the hearts of the American people.

THERE is no country so happy and prosperous as that in which labor is fostered by judicious protection against unfair competition; but essential to understanding and properly applying such aid to his personal benefit, the laborer must understand how to take care of himself, how to harvest his earnings, and how to escape the exactions of middlemen.—Where there is lack of steady habit, men become thriftless and shiftless, in which condition in the world would be incapable of improving their welfare. A little more personal culture, with less gratification of personal appetite, is what a great many men, laborers and capitalists, want to improve their condition.

—Recently, George M. Ellis died in Chester county, in his 92d year. He is reported to have had the consumption nearly all his life, his physician having assured him, before he was twenty, that he could not survive the next two years. Ellis was so pale and thin for forty years previous to his decease that he was known as the walking skeleton; and yet he is believed to have been, with two exceptions, the oldest man in the county.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY AND ITS MISSION.

It has often been asserted by the enemies of the Republican party, that its mission has been accomplished, and that it should now give place to one of more advanced ideas, and of more enlarged political action.

We propose to show, in a few brief articles, this view to be erroneous. And First. The Republican party was called into being by the Democratic slave Oligarchy of the United States. For near forty years previous to the year 1850, the slave power had held control of the executive, judicial and legislative branches of the general Government; at first, exercising a mild and gentle influence, under assumed, rather than positive constitutional law. During this period, the leaders of the Democratic party only claimed that slavery could exist where positive legislation sustained it. This, for years, was not only the view of that party, often expressed in its platforms and resolutions, but was the universal sentiment of the civilized world. That man could hold property in his fellow man, is a doctrine abhorrent to reason, and that finds no sanction even in the conscience of the savage.

It had, nevertheless, secured an existence in several of the States of this Union, so permanent and fixed, that the general Government found it impossible to meddle with it outside of the States where it was tolerated. In these States it would have remained for years to come, had not its authors sought to extend it by the introduction and passage of laws contrary to the genius and spirit of our national constitution.

When slavery first demanded leave to go beyond the bounds originally assigned to it, it was met by stern opposition, and a barrier thrown across its pathway by the passage of the Missouri compromise in 1820. This for a time settled its territorial limits, and left the noxious principle to work its ruin among those connected with its immediate presence. Like all evil, when supported by law, it soon became a powerful political element, and was adopted by the great Democratic party, as the base upon which, for more than a quarter of a century, rested their political supremacy.

So wide spread and nearly universal had the slave power become in 1852, that the two great political parties, then contesting the field for presidential honors, vied with each other to see which should get most humbly in the dust at the feet of this modern Oligarch. In that controversy the Democratic party was equally triumphant. But now, a new era dawns upon the American people. The slave power flushed with victory attempts to press its iron heal on the virgin soil of Kansas. Its demands were now beyond endurance. Not only had it broken down all barriers to its advancement into the national territories, but entered the free States, and made slave hunters of the millions who believed it to be a national sin, that unless destroyed by the Government, would ultimately destroy the Government itself. To check its further progress, and drive it back into its original constitutional boundary, was the object for which the Republican party was organized. Its first campaign was in 1856. It entered the political contest of that year, resolved to establish the principles promulgated in the declaration of Independence, and embodied in the Federal constitution, and prohibit in the territories those twin relics of barbarism, Polygamy and Slavery. In this contest it was defeated by the Democratic slave Oligarchy. The Republican party, however, emerged from that controversy, one of the most compact determined band of freemen that ever girded on the political armor, to contend for the rights and liberties of man. That canvass showed more than a million and a quarter of voters, who had rallied to the support of its principles. The Republican party now gave full notice to its opponents, that but four years more lay between it and the day when it would unroll its banner in the triumph of victory. This was no uncertain or unmeaning notice. The slave Oligarchy felt its force and trembled as it contemplated the fact, that in the canvass of '60, more than five hundred thousand votes would be added to the host already in the field, and that such an army of freemen, supported by the grand idea, that God had made of one blood all the Nations of Earth, could not be otherwise than successful on that coming field of conflict.

In 1860 the Republican army again rallied as one man, and stood before the people of the United States, and of the world, on this firm resolve:

"That the maintainance of the principles promulgated in the declaration of Independence, and embodied in the Federal constitution. That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these, are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, is essential to the preservation of our Republican institutions; and that the Federal constitution, the rights of the States, and the Union of the States, must and shall be preserved."

When the ides of November had passed, and the seal that enclosed the ballot had been broken, it was found that near two millions of freemen had rallied to the support of the principles contained in this resolution. This brief view of events brings us down to the time when the Republican party took possession of the government and commenced the clearing out of the rebel element preparatory to entering upon the great work that lay before it, of which we will speak in our next.

THE DEMOCRATIC ADDRESS.

It was a favorite saying of an old colored man living down in Kentucky, that "Blessed are those who expect nuffin, for they ain't gwine to be disappointed," but with regard to the manifesto of the Democratic leaders in Congress, it was different. Its forthcoming had been proclaimed in the East, South, North and West; on the hill-top, and in the valley. Yes, the great fiat of the Democracy—wonderful document—about which so much has been said, and of which so much had been expected, and which was intended to startle the whole country with its sublime wisdom was coming.—It was not expected that any new principle would be embodied in the forthcoming proclamation, because the Democratic party, to be true to its best interest, must be true to its past record, and here the rub, the new issues it dare not champion; old ones it dare not cast aside.

The mountain labored long, and bro't forth what? Nothing, absolutely nothing. After four weeks of severe labor, or as one of the dalies of Washington city says, "just long enough to hatch goslings," the Democratic Members, of the Senate and House of Representatives have issued what, they what they are pleased to term, an address to the people. Tha daily Patriot (the Democratic organ there) in giving it the public says:

"This important paper is intended to expose the actual situation of affairs here, and to present to the country a statement of the course of the Radical party in its "usurpations" of power and its criminal neglect of the public interests, &c., &c."

Hark to the old cry—persecution, usurpations of power, destruction of our liberties, &c. As the N. Y. Tribune says, "there is not a boy of fifteen in the land, who has not heard this "singsong" till his ears call for cotton to relieve them of the dread monotonous din." There is not a penny whistle in the republic that cannot utter as pleasing and forcible a variation as that of the Democratic Members of Congress.

The whole paper above referred to, is a fabric of falsehoods from beginning to end, and can be refuted by facts and figures; but at present, we will refer more particularly to one clause, that which alludes so deprecatingly to the manner in which our soldiers have been treated with regard to the public domain. Now in this clause, there is certainly a conundrum. To what soldiers do they refer, Union or Confederate? They cannot have reference to the first, because in looking over the list of persons whose names are attached to said documents, but two or three are there who were found battling for the right and the cause of justice. Excepting these, it is safe to say that few, or none of the others ever allowed their sympathies to enlist in the Union cause, while on the other hand, nearly, or quite one fourth of these same persons whose names are signed to the Democratic address, served with distinction in the Confederate army. Now, we will ask any candid reader, do these men, in their hearts, wish to give any advantage to the Union in preference to the Confederate soldier? The truth is, and the record of their votes in the past will attest it, that three-fourths of those who put their names to that address, would much rather give the Confederate soldier the benefit of their legislation, than to those who fought in their country's defense.

The whole address is but a repetition of the same old hobby, upon which the Democratic party have been trying to ride into power for many years, but fortunately for the country, although, unfortunate for them, this pet scheme will never win, and is it to be wondered at? The events of the war, with its causes and consequences, are too recent, too fresh in the minds of the American people, ever to allow that party to control their destinies, when they had the power, proved treacherous to their trust. The people will still continue to put their faith in leaders, whom they have tried and found competent and worthy, rather than trust to those on the other hand, whom they have tried and found incompetent and unworthy.

THE DEMOCRATIC MANIFESTO.

In the address of the Democratic Members of Congress, the following paragraph appears:

"Nearly $200,000,000 acres of public lands which should have been reserved for the benefit of the people, have been voted away to giant corporations, neglecting our soldiers and enriching a handful of greedy speculators and lobbyists, who are enabled to exercise a most dangerous and corrupting influence over State and federal legislation."

WHAT ARE THE FACTS?

First, The grants made for Railroad and Canal improvements while the Democracy had exclusive control of every branch of the government, amounted to 33,677,213 acres. Second, of the grants for such improvements since the Republicans attained power there have been granted to States—not private corporations—an estimated aggregate of 33,857,966,44 acres. Third. The grants to corporations, have been made to the three great trans-continental lines only, as follows: (estimated) To the Union and Central Pacific 35,000,000 acres; Northern Pacific 47,000,000; Northern Pacific branch 11,000,000; Atlantic and Pacific (Southern) 20,000,000; Total 113,000,000, making the grants to corporations 87,000,000 of acres less than stated by these varacious democratic Congressmen. An examination of the record discloses the fact, that in proportion to their numbers, the democrats supported all these grants as strongly as the republicans. Besides, it will be conceded by every person of ordinary intelligence, that the remaining acres of the public domain will be worth vastly more to the people with these roads constructed, than would the whole without these essential improvements. The fertile plains and exhaustless mineral resources of the interior were inaccessible and practically worthless to the masses of the people in the absence of these great national pathways. So much for the false statement of the democratic Congressmen; and now, as to the facts they failed to state; for to withhold or overstate the facts, is equally false, both in law and morals.

They neglected to state, that when in the full possession of power they passed a graduation act by which millions of acres of accessable and valuable public lands passed into the hands of "greedy speculators" at the nominal price of twelve and-a-half to twenty-five cents per acre; and that the republicans promptly repealed that infamous statute.

They neglected to state, that when controlling every branch of the government, they passed the so-called swamp land statute, under which, more than 60,000,000 acres, much of which was, and is the best land in the older States, has become the property of "greedy speculators" at merely nominal prices.

They neglected to state that, for twenty years they had designedly, in the interest of the slave master, refused to adopt the Homestead principle; and, that the republicans at the first regular session after their accession to power, passed the Homestead law which they still continue in force.

They neglected to state, that by Republican votes only, were seldiers supplied in the field, pensioned when disabled, and given a Homestead upon the public domain at the nominal cost occupancy and cultivation.

They neglected to state, when speaking of corruption "State and Federal legislation," that the very magnates of their party had just closed a contract for the open purchase of the control of the legislature of the empire State, demonstrating by a concurrent and conspicuous example, that this address is, in all its parts, but the silly dodge of the criminal who raises the cry of "stop thief," to cover his own retreat.

—We learn that the breaker of Helfenstein's Lykens Valley colliery is finished and ready to ship coal.

THE SOUTHERN PROBLEM.

To truly restore the Southern portion of our domain to the nation; to the people of the entire country, and to give the loyal portion of the South, the command of the position; organization among their own numbers is requisite—a thorough systematic organization—a working organization, an organization such as shall give to each of its members a complete sense of security and power, and concentration, an entire confidence in a united effort in case of emergency. An organization that shall show by its acts, that it can and will repel aggression and defend its members against wanton and malicious assaults from enemies, whether open or masked; an organization everywhere alert, and that can and will, whenever and wherever necessary, carry the war into the very heart of the enemy's camp—an organization that can, if need be, be aggressive as well as defensive—an organization having its subordinate centers in every township or precinct. Such an organization is possible—such an organization is not only possible, but, if wisely conceived and directed, is easy. The elements are ready and ripe for its formation, only the directing hand is necessary to be raised, and the benificent organization will spring, fully fledged into healthy and vigorous maturity.

STATE NEWS.

—Williamsport has seventy-one licensed liquor houses.

—Berks county is to have a new $25,000 alms house.

—The coal miners in the neighborhood of Scranton are said to have lost $800,000 in wages during the present strike.

—Osceola is spreading itself some this summer—several new houses being in course of erection.

—The military of Norristown have been invited to take part in the ceremonies dedicating the Phœnixville soldiers' monument, on the 20th of May.

—About $400 have been subscribed by some citizens of West Chester and vicinity, to purchase black bass for stocking the Brandywine.

—The Lehigh building association of Easton, this week, sold money at the following rates: $600 at 28 per cent.; $2,000 at 30½ per cent.; $1,000 at 31 per cent.

—Over $5,000 has already been subscribed to the workmen in the Phœnix Iron Works towards the erection of the monument of the late David Reeves, of Phœnixville.

—Jessie and Jared Darlington, at Darlington station, Chester county, have in their dairy 102 cows of superior stock. Within a few weeks they have lost seventeen by pleuro pneumonia.

—Ground was broken in Greensburg on Wednesday, the 12th ult., for a new Masonic hall. The corner stone is to be laid on the 24th of June with imposing ceremonies.

—Allegheny county is making arrangements to decorate the soldiers graves on the 30th day of May. A monument to the soldiers of Allegheny county who lost their lives in the rebellion will be dedicated.

—An important enterprise is the projected Southwest Pennsylvania railroad company—a branch of the Pennsylvania Central—which will dispute with the Pittsburg and Connellsville road the traffic of the southwestern section of the State.

—Messrs. Jacob and Henry Bushong and George B. Connarp have purchased the Packerack mill property, near the Lancaster bridge, from Bernhart & Koch, for $15,000, and will convert the building into a paper mill.

—The new steel puddling apparatus at the Pottsville Rolling Mill is now undergoing a through test. The entire machinery for manufacturing steel-headed rails will soon be in readiness for a test, when we shall have something more to say of it.

—Rev. Stephen Smith, an aged colored preacher, who long resided in Columbia and was very successful there as a lumber dealer, but for some years a resident of Philadelphia, has built a home for aged colored persons in that city, at a cost of $30,000.

—A Masonic apron made by Madam Lafayette, and sent over to this country as a present to Gen. Washington, is now in Masonic hall, Philadelphia. Gen. Washington's regalia, which he wore, belongs to Washington lodge in Alexandria, Va., and is preserved as a precious relic in that lodge.

—As Mr. George C. Wyland, blacksmith at Clokeyville, was splitting rails the other day—a rare exercise for him—he came upon a band of iron, with four nails through it, right in the heart of the tree. It had evidently been put around the tree when very small, as a hinge for a gate or bar post.

—A movable funeral chapel is a novelty introduced by the managers of West Laurel Hill, Philadelphia, which is intended to be spread for each interment over the grave and its immediate vicinity. It covers an are a sufficient to allow standing room for fifty to seventy-five persons, and here on dry ground they may remain sheltered from the inclemency of the weather, either sun, rain, or wind during the most protracted religious service.

THE DUTCH FLYOFFISPEED.

I shust been to Milvaukee,
Von loats of vheat to draw
And dere, by dunder in the strheet
De voonlest ding I saw.
Und it was von Flyoffispeed,
Dat ish de name you call,
Und you can took a ride on dhis.
Mithout no horse at all.

But somedings vhat looks like a horse,
Vot don't got any veet,
But has got veels unto his legs,
To run along de sthreet.
Und you don't got to hef some stheam,
To make de masheen run,
But you shust get upon his back,
And ride yourself, like vun.

Mein boy, Hans, he was long mit me,
And saw der masheen too,
Und, vot you tink, ven he goes home,
De first ding he shall do?
He went and got an old saw-horse,
And dwo drue vheels he finds
Und bore some hole into the legs
Und feex der vheels pehind.

Den for a veel to go before,
He von old grindsthone takes,
Und dhen a crank on dhother side,
Do turn de veels he makes:
Und veex a place to put hece feet,
De turn de grindstone veel;
Because, you see, if dhis von go,
De oders can't stand still.

Den ven he gets de masheen done,
He veels so awful smart,
He calls de volks all out,
Und look how nice he sthart;
But when de dhing won't go at all,
Den Hans veel very cheap,
Und look so seeley like a dhief,
Shoost ven he sthole von sheep.

I dhold Hans vhat de matter ish;
Do dhing vhat sthart you know—
I dhink he will some better run,
Ven you let him down hill go;
So dhen he took him on von hill,
Stheeper as never grew,
Und then he gets upon his pack,

Hees plind shust like a peedle,
Und in de oder he can't see some,
Only shust but leedle.
By dunder! if he got well,
I dinks he will be 'greed,
To kill himself not any more
Mit one Flyoffispeed.

SAN DOMINGO.

It is said that there is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. Mr. Sumner, in his speech on the San Domingo question, evidently failed to strike that tide. It is a sorrowful sight to behold a great and honest man giving vent to feelings and passions, which are sure to work his ultimate distruction. Had Mr. Sumner's great powers been directed only in opposition to annexation, his speech would have been read with interest and attention. But this was not his object. His treatment of the President bore conclusive testimony that annexation had little or nothing to do with its delivery. His strong desire was to attack the President of the United States, and it was here that he sought the opportunity, as one most fitting, to gratify a malice that for months had been the growing sentiment of his heart.

This speech of the great Massachusett's Senator, fully illustrated the Divine adage, that "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." After speaking for nearly three hours he took his seat, and without one look of approval from Senators who hitherto had regarded him as a leader and a friend.—It was noticed, and remarked, that no Republican Senator turned to congratulate him upon the success of his effort. From the Democratic side of the Senate came Mr. Thurman of Ohio, who, after shaking hands with Mr. Sumner, said: "I congratulate you, your speech is a success. This is the happiest day in my life. You have succeeded in dividing the Republican party." What must be the feelings of Mr. Sumner when he remembers that his speech, upon which, in revising and arranging, he had spent the past winter, was now to receive only the commendation of men with whom, in sentiment, he had ever been at war, and at one time virtually assaulted him in his seat. That Mr. Thurman's views were entertained by Demoaratic Senators, is clearly evident from the fact, that many of them approached Mr. Sumner, bestowing upon him, smiles and hearty shakes that were more significant than words.

Mr. Schurz of Mo., came to the support of Mr. Sumner, but the moral effect of his speech was lost, by reason of a similar attack made by himself upon the President on a previous occasion, when he (Mr. Schurz) was completely annihilated by his colleague, Mr. Drake. When Mr. Schurz took his seat, that stern old Republican Senator from Iowa, Mr. Harlin, immediately arose, and in a few brief moments, delivered one of the most powerful Phillippics ever heard in the Senate, completely overthrowing the whole argument of Mr. Sumner and Schurz, so far as their speeches charged the President with the least criminality in his connection with the San Domingo question. Mr. Schurz winced terrible under the severe castigation inflicted upon him by Mr. Harlan, rising towards Mr. Harlan's language, which the President of the Senate informed Mr. Schurz could not be tolerated under parlimentary rules, which led Mr. Schurz to apologise and after that, kept his peace and his seat.

In that speech Mr. Sumner has damaged no one but himself. In his coming and going from the Senate, he shows by his actions, that he feels he has lost the confidence of friends, and gained only the weak applause of a party, that through a lifetime he has condemned and politically despised. He doubtless thinks, that in his case, the language of the poet will yet be verified.

That truth crushed to earth will rise again.

Yet we think, he will live to comprehend the opposite sentiment of the poet.

That error wounded, withers in pained,
And dies amidst its worshipers.

The report of the San Domingo Commissioners appe ars in the daily papers, and exhibits the fact which was before conceded, that the work assigned to that Commission has been well and thoroughly done. A succinct and clear view of the structure and administration of the local government is given, which shows that, but for dangers apprehended from its more aggressive and turbulent neighbors, the people would be reasonably secure and happy. But, that in view of those aggressions and the disturbances caused by the revolutionary leader Cabral and his hand full of followers, there is imminent danger, if not mortal certainty, that the Dominican Government must seek annexation to, or protection from some other more powerful nation. The opposition to the Baez Government is scarcely more than a riot confined to a very small district, and but for the encouragement received from the Haytyens it would have been long since suppressed. The only hope of the people for peace and protection, is in some more powerful and better organized government.—The feeling in favor of annexation to the United States is nearly unanimous.

The population is quite temperate, but generally uneducated, there being few schools—mostly mixed blood, though a considerable number of pure Spanish decent is found in the interior of the Island. Labor is abundant and cheap, wages of man being about ten dollars a month. Drunkedness and crime are rare. The people are not degraded, and are more intelligent than might be expected in a country so poorly supplied with the means of education, and do not exceed 150,000 in number.

CHARACTER OF THE SOIL.

Summarially and practically viewed, for agricultural purposes, there are five classes of land, viz:

1. The mountain slopes and valleys.—These are uniformally rich and productive, except in limited regions where rain is deficient, as on the southern slope of the coast range northeast of Monte Christi.

2. The extensive prairie region of the Llanos, lying east and north of San Domingo city and south of the Cibao range, is all admirable pasture land.

3. The rolling plain of the Vega, which is generally wooded, and is the finest body of agricultural land on the island.

4. The dry lands, like a portion of the plain of Azua and the valley of the Yaqui where rain is partly or wholly wanting, from topographical causes.

5. The red clay lands, mostly along the coast, underlaid by coraline limestone. These are usally covered with timber.—They are not generally very rich or deep but are susceptible of profitable cultivation.

PRODUCTS.

The productions cover the whole range of vegetation to be found in the torrid and temperate zones.

CLIMATE AND HEALTH.

The testimony of witnesses, the observation of the Commissioners, and the reports of special investigations show that it is generally a healthy country.—Immigrants easily become accustomed to the climate. On the coast, where hot weather prevails, care must be taken.

The popular idea that, the Dominican territory is particularly unhealthy, and that persons visiting it are particularly liable to yellow fever, is entirely erroneous. The average general health and longevity is quite equal to and probably greater than that of the United States, as a whole. Immigrants are not liable to any more disturbance of general health in the process of acclimation than are persons who pass from the old to the new States of the United States, and saving upon the sea coast, the process is so gentle as to escape notice. Taking the year through as much agricultural can be done without affecting health as can be done in our Middle and Western States, and with greater results.

RIVERS.

There are several rivers, as the Yuna, Yaqui, and Ozama, which, during the greater part of the year, can be navigated by vessels of light draught to a considerble distance into the interior. At present they simply afford facilities for floating down the timber which grows within easy distance of their banks.

BAYS AND HARBORS.

The territory of the Dominican Republic is indented with numerous harbors, generally accessible only to vessels of light draught. The three great bays of Samana, Ocoa, and Manzanillo admit vessels of the largest draught, and are important as outlets of the commerce of the country surrounding them.

THE BAY OF SAMANA.

It is at the northeastern extremity of of the island: is thirty miles long by about ten miles broad, and is sufficiently commodious for the largest fleets. It is well protected from the winds, especially those of the northeast, by the mountains of the peninsula. Its entrance presents no obstacle to large ships of the largest draught, is narrower than that of the harbor of St. Thomas, but is the more easily fortified on that account. Its situation gives it easy command of the Mona Passage, the most important eastern avenue to the Gulf of Mexico, whose importance will be immensely enhanced should any new passage be opened to the world's commerce through the Isthmus of Darien. To any power having occasion to maintain a fleet in the West Indies, and especially to the United States, as having vast interests to protect in the Gulf of Mexico, the value of the position as a coaling station can hardly be overrated. Under a secure and liberal government a city would grow up at some point on this bay which would be one of the great commercial centers of the West Indies. Its value to the coasting trade is enhanced by the fact that what is commonly called the peninsula is, in reality, an island, as there is a passage which could easily be made available for ships of moderate size, from the west end of the bay to the north sea coast.

The Commissioners were notified while investigating matters at the capital of the Dominican Republic that although the Government of the United States had not relinquished possession of the Bay of Samana, but had constantly enjoyed the use and occupation thereof as a naval station, the rent due was in default for more than one year.

DEBT AND RESOURCES.

The Public debt is about $1,565,831, and the annual income from all sources about $700,000.

TERRITORIAL DIMENSION.

The extent of Dominican territory, within the old boundary of 1777, is found by a new and careful computation, made under the direction of the Commissioners, to be 22,212 square miles. The portion of this is already referred to as having been mainly in Haytian occupancy, and has an extent of about 1000 square miles.

A considerable portion of this territory is still the property of the Government, and under proper management, would become a source of revenue.

RELATIONS OF SAN DOMINGO TO FREE LABOR IN THE WEST INDIES.

The influence which San Domingo, under a stabled government, would exercise upon the institution of slavery, has not escaped attention. It would be all on the side of freedom. Nor would that influence be merely meral. With liberty, order, free labor, and the immigration which would be attracted by those with a vast advantage in the West India trade arising from the fact that any duties laid by the United States on West India productions for revenue, would be a discrimination against slave products, and would inure to the protection of Dominican free labor, it is not too much to expect that San Domingo might be developed into a powerful State which, by the inevitable laws of trade, would make slave labor in the neighboring islands unprofitable, and, by the spread of its ideas, render the whole slave and caste system, odious.

The Commissioners concluded their report as follows: In reviewing the whole field of their investigations, looking to the interests of both divisions of the island, they are firmly persuaded that the annexation of San Domingo to the United States would be hardly less beneficial to the Haytian than to the Dominican people. This benefit would arise, first, from the example which would doubtless be afforded of a well regulated, orderly, and prosperous state—the great need of that part of the world, and which it has, as yet, never seen. A second, and mere direct benefit, would arise from the equitable establishment of a boundary line between the French-speaking and the Spanish-speaking nations upon that island, and its guarantee by a strong power. This would end the exhausting border warfare, which has been one of the greatest curses of Hayti, as well as San Domingo, and would enable both to devote their energies thenceforward to the education of their people and the development of their resources.

Respectfully submitted,

B. F. WADE,
A. D. WHITE,
S. G. HOWE.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE U. S.

THE IMPRESSION MADE BY THE REPORT. is that it completely vindicates the President from all the asperations of his assailants. The President in transmitting the report to Congress, submits the facts and the subject to the Judgment of the people, in a message which should be printed, at length, in every paper in the land.

SPEECH OF SENATOR MORRILL

of Vermont against San Domingo, delivered in the Senate yesterday, was prepared and in print some days before the message of the President, or the report of the Commissioners were transmitted to Congress. It is therefore, no answer to either the message or report; it being made from the same false standpoint upon which the opposition of Senator Sumner was based, though wanting in the element of personal hostility, and free from personal assaults upon the President. Fair minded and unprejudiced minds will regret that the Senator had not first studied the report of the Commissioner, and conformed his argument to the latest authenticated facts.—The sincerity in his opposition to San Domingo will not be questioed, and it is therefore, the more to be regretted that he has not adopted his argument to the present condition of the case.

It is now known that much of the information upon which Senator Sumner relied in his argument against the proposition of annexation, was based upon forged papers, prepared in this country for a compensation, and imposed upon Senator Sumner, by one to whom he had injudiciously given his confidence. There will be those who will say, that the eminent Chairman of the Foreign Relation Committee, should have been more cautious, should have investigated, and should have been sure of his facts. The apparent answer to this is, that he was so intent upon evidence against annexation and so anxious to put the President in the wrong, that he distrusted only such evidence as weighed against his views, and grasped with enthusiasm and without examination, all such as confirmed his preconceived opinions, or gratified his deep seated prejudices.

A Patriotic Jury.

Mr. Charles M. Lee was a well known criminal lawyer of Rochester, N. Y. He summed up a case with superfluity of gesture, and an affluence of perspiration, that would have astonished even John Graham in his vehement and melting moods. Lee was defending an old Revolutionary soldier for passing a forged note for some thirty dollars. There was hardly the faintest doubt of his guilt; but Lee contrived to get before the jury the fact that the prisoner then a dare devil of nineteen, was one of the storming party that followed Mad Anthony Wayne in his desperate assault upon Stony Point, and helped to carry the wounded General into the fort during the terrible fight. In summing up, Lee, after getting over the ugly points of the evidence as best he could, undertook to carry the jury by escalade on the ground of the prisoner's Revolutionary services. He described in graphic language the bloody attack on Stony Point, the impetuous valor of Wayne, the daring exploit of his client, and wound up with this stunning interrogatory: "Gentlemen of the jury, will you send to the State Prison, for passing a contemptable thirty-dollar forged note, and an old hero of three-score-and-ten, who, in his youth, cheered the heart of his country in the darkest hour of the Revolution by storming Stony Point?"

This was a poser. The chins of some of the jury quivered, but the foreman, a bluff farmer, put on an air which seemed to say that storming Stony Point was a good thing enough in its line, but what had it to do with passing this forged note? After being out a couple of hours, the jury returned to the Court-room, when the clerk went through the usual formula:

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?'

"We have."

"Do you find the prisoner at the bar guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty, because he stormed Stony Point!" thundered the stalwart foreman, who it was afterwards learned, was the last to come to an agreement.

The audience applauded, the crier rapped to order, the District Attorney objected to the recording of the verdict, and the Judge sent the jury out again, telling the foreman in a rather sharp tone that they must find an unconditional verdict of guilty or not guilty. After an absence of a few minutes, they returned a simple verdict of not guilty, adding, however, as he dropped into his seat. "It was a good thing, though, Judge, for the old Revolutionary cuss that he stormed Stony Point!"

"Whiskey Has Used Him Up."

There is scarcely a community or neighborhood from Maine to Oregon where this saying is not used almost every day in the year, and altogether too truly. A subject of this kind is to be found in almost every town. The merchant has failed and whiskey has done it. The lawyer, with brilliant talents and a large business, has fallen below the range of respectability and confidence; whiskey was the cause. The politician with bright prospects before him, has played out, and the account is charged to whiskey. The jndge, of all talent, age and respectability, is the subject of private and neighborhood talk.—His enimies point with derision, and his friends hang their heads in shame, and whiskey has done it. That kind hearted neighbor and hard working man has become a pest in society and a trouble to his family. Whiskey has beat him.—Whiskey will beat any man living, and that is just what it is made for.—East Brady Independent.

A man with a scolding wife says he has less fear of the jaws of death than of the jaws of life.

How Fine-Looking Men are Made Up.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Republican goes for the male element after the following graphic style:

"It is high time that some inconoclastic exposer of fralities, follies and female finery turn his or her attention to the men. Poor woman has had her hands so full in defending her own case, that men have enjoyed an immunity from criticism they don't deserve.

That the little artifices of female toilettes are resorted to only to please the sterner sex, should win from them gallant silence. We all know how fond an old bald headed cuss always is of a bald headed women. The old fellow who has a full set of store teeth never says a word does he, about those six new grave stones Miss Penelope Scranton got in last spring? And those, the writers on the events of the period, they never give the world whole columns about those mysterious article hung up in corset and hoop store windows? Oh, no. Now I am going to have a shy at these critics. I've been getting myself up on the subject of man's imperfections and the devises adopted to conceal them. The strongest shaft of sarcasm and the longest fingers of scorn have been used on the above mentioned store windows, and there's been no end to the talk about ladies' stuffing, and "pads," "palpitators," etc.

IS THERE NO STUFFING ABOUT A MAN?

Oh, my sisters, when you rest your heads upon the manly bosoms of your fathers, and brothers, and lovers, and husbands, you feel little bumps and hard things, don't you? Do you suppose it's their noble hearts throbs, sending up there sternums in gentle kicks? When you throw your arms about their sturdy necks, do you think it's their clavicles that give such rigidity to their stalwart forms? And when they fade from your gaze, like beautiful streams, do you think there's nothing but scapulas and vertebral columns to produce those imposing figures? Great Cæsas, how innocent you are. It's stuffing. Above their manly bosom they wear lots of fat under clothes, a puffy, starched, self-sustaining "biled shirt," a well padded vest; and a coat, yes, two coats, with layers of buckram and wadding, and strips of whalebone stitched in, and horse hair cloth sandwiched in between outside and lining.

That is not stuffing at all, is it? Then those tremendous shoulders, that seem a tower of defense to the weak, little, oppressed sisterhood. Get a needle—a knitting needle—and start out in search of the flexors and extensors of that good right arm. Harpoon him with perfect safety; it is all cotton. His little shoulders live away back under a coat of a shed—a gambrel roof, an enbankment:

There's an unnatural calmness about the fit of a man's coat on the shoulder, that should indicate to the careless observer the actual state of things. But it don't.

OTHER DEVICES.

Then there are lots of men who wear corsets. They make them at several stores for gentlemen opposed to public corporation. Then men often get nasty little mats made of hair, and stick 'em on with glue where they have bald spots and have to put their old head to soak before they can get them off. I vow, women never resorted to such uncomfortable decoration as that. We tie on and pin on all the false hair we can carry; but we never did stick on things with mucilage and glue. Years ago, when it was fashionable to wear our tresses spatted close to our heads—each particular hair smooth and straight as a poker—some inventive man got up a gruel of quince seed called "Bandoline." But women voted the stuff an abomination, and would'nt be made elegant through such uncomfortable agents. Nothing on earth smells as villanously bad as the nitrate of silver dyes the men luxuriate in. Do the fastidious creatures revolt—not they; its "offense is rank," but it don't hinder them from bathing once a week their moustaches, whiskers, hair and eyebrows in the detestable liquids.

A Word to Young Men.

It is as easy to be a good man as a poor one. Half the energy displayed in keeping ahead that is required to catch up when behind, would save credit, give more time to attend to business, and add to the profit and reputation of those who work for gain. Be prompt; keep your word. Honor your engagements. If you promise to meet a man, or do a certain thing at a certain moment, be ready at the appointed time. If you go out on business attend promptly to the matter on hand, then as promptly attend to your own business. Do not stop to tell stories in business hours. If you have a place of business be there when wanted. No man can get rich by sitting around stores and saloons. Never "fool" on business matters. Have order, system, regularity, liberality and promptness.—Do not meddle with business you know nothing of. Never buy an article you do not need, simply because it is cheap, and the man who sells it will take it out in trade. Trade is money. Strive to avoid harsh words and personalities.—Do not kick every stone in the path; more miles can be made in a day, by going steadily on, than stopping to kick. Pay as you go. A man of honor respects his word as he does his bond. Aid, but never beg. Help others when you can, but never do what you cannot afford to, simply because it is fashionable. Learn to say no; no necessity of snapping it out dog fashion, but say it firmly and respectfully. Have but few confidants, and the fewer the better. Use your own brains rather than those of others. Learn to think and act for yourself. Be vigilant. Keep ahead rather than behind the time. Young man, cut this out, and if there be folly in the argument let us know.—Peninsular Herald.

Gleanings.

How to make a thin baby fat—Throw it from a third story window, and it's sure to come down plump.

'How long can a fool live?' asked a lawyer of a witness. 'I don't know,' replied the witness. 'How old are you?'

What evidence is there that there was beer in the ark?—The kangaroo was seen to go in with hops, and Bruin soon followed.

"Your cousin Jake has run away with your sweetheart and married her!" said one friend to another. "Poor Jake!" exclaimed the jilted lover.

"Have you 'Blasted Hopes?" asked a lady of a green librarian, whose face was much swollen by toothache. "No, ma'am," he replied, "but I've a blasted toothache."

A young man who was caught straining his sweetheart to his bosom the other night, on Twelfth avenue, justifies himself on the ground that he has a right to strain his own boney.

A rich farmer refused to subscribe for an iron fence for a cemetery in Vermont, on the plea that it needed no fence, as those inside can not get out, and those who are out do not want to get in.

For one woman who gets a husband by means of showy dress and costly jewels, nine fail to get husbands because of the costliness of their attire and the disposition and taste it indicates.

A country journal having declared that during the carnival at Washington "widows on the avenue were let from $30 to $50 each," explained the next day by saying "windows, not widows, were meant."

An old minister says that the best criticism he ever received on his preaching was from a little fellow who has been following his sermon attentively, and suddenly spoke out, as he heard a repetition of a remark previously made, "You said that afore."

"Here, Alfred, is an apple: divide it politely with your little sister." "How shall I divide it politely, mamma?" "By giving the larger part of it to your sister, my child." Alfred then handed the apple to his little sister saying: "Here sis, you divide it yourself."

A friend relates the following: A mile or two from town he met a boy on horseback crying with cold.

"Why don't you get down and lead him? That is the way to keep warm."

"No," said the boy, "its a b-b-borrowed hoss, and I'll ride him if I freeze."

"Tom, where's that ten dollar counterfeit bill you had a while ago?" "Well, marster, I never was quite clear in my mind about dat are bill. Some days I t'ought it was a bad bill, and other days I t'ought it was a good bill; and one o' dem days when I t'ought it was a good bill, I jes' passed it away!"

A miller had his neighbor arrested under the charge of stealing wheat from his mill, but being unable to substantiate the charge by proof, the court adjudged that the miller should make acknowledgement to the accusted. "Well," says he, "I have had you arrested for stealing my wheat. I can't prove it, and I am sorry for it."

Sir William Davenant, the poet, who had no nose, going along the street in London one day, a beggar-woman followed him, crying, "Ah, God preserve your eyesight, sir! the Lord preserve your eyesight!" "Why, good woman," said he, "dost thou pray so much for my eyesight?" "Ah, dear sir," answered the woman, "if it should please God that you grow dim sighted, you have no place to hang your spectacles on."

Come unt listen vat I tells you,
Pout von horse I puy vontay,
I puts him to my vagon
Unt den he runs away.

He runs so fast like blitzen,
He goes so fast like steam,
He nocks down von fine fraulein,
Mine himmel! how she scream.

I run to help de fraulein oop,
I run more as von square,
I graps der lady by de head.
Unt pulls oof a'l de hair.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now complete connections made,
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedy and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of Spring and Summer clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also peoplewho, instead of travelling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest price.

DR. PIERCE'S ALT. EXT. OR GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

The originator of this wonderful medicine, claims to have discovered and combined in harmony more of Nature's most sovereign medical properties than was ever before combined in one medicine. The evidence of this fact is found in the great variety of most obstinate diseases which it has been found to conquer. In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and hundreds of the best physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all Humors from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch Pimple or Eruption. Mercurial Disease, Mineral Poisons, Syphilitic and Venerial Diseases, and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Scald head, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all the numerous diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying and invigorating medicine For "Liver Complaint," Bilious Disorders and Habitual Constipation, it has produced hundreds of perfect and permanent cures where other medicines had failed.

The proprietor offers $1,000 reward for a medicine that will equal it in the cure of all the diseases for which it is recommended. Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations. See that my private Government Stamp, which is a positive guarantee of genuineness, is upon the outside wrapper. This medicine is Sold by Druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Prepared by R. V. PIERCE, M.D., Sole Proprietor, at his Chemical Laboratory 133 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y.

SOMETHING NEW

UNDER THE SUN.

A New Era In Medicine.

☞Let the Suffering and Diseased read the following.

☞Let all who have been given up by Doctors, and spoken of as incurable, read the following.

☞Let all who can believe facts, and can have faith in evidence, read the following.

Know all men by these presents. That, on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-six, personally came Joseph Haydrick to me known as such, and being duly sworn deposed as follows: "That he is the sole general agent for the United States and dependencies thereof for preparations or medicines known as Dr. Maggiel's Pills and Salve, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMEITRE, Notary Public,
[L.S.] 14 Wall St. New York.

June 1st, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Oh, Doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss. JAMES MYERS,
116 Avenue, D.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have been cured by Dr. Maggiel's Pills.

WILSON HARVEY,
NEW YORK, April 7, 1866. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a flask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me, by him, about eight weeks after the accident:

NEW YORK, Jan. 11, 1866.

My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder. I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal: I tried Maggiel's Salve and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true and anybody can see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 2d Avenue.

J. HARDY, 119 Greeck St.

EXTRACTS FROM VARIOUS LETTERS.

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Pills are marvellous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured."

"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears, and the noise has left."

"Send me two boxes, I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar, your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your Pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail."

I Have over 200 such Testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS,

And all erruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

DR. MAGGIEL'S PILLS

Invariably cure the following Diseases: Asthma, Bowel Complaints, Coughs, Colds, Chest Diseases, Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Diarrhea, Dropsy, Debility, Fever and Ague, Female Complaints, Headache, Indigestion, Influenza, Inflammation, Inward Weakness, Liver Complaints, Lowness of Spirits, Ring Worm, Rheumatism, Scalds, Skin Diseases, Salt Rheum, etc.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

R. B. BARGER,.....PROPRIETOR

W. W. BROWN,.....EDITOR

Terms: $2.00 Per Annum in Advance.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, May 3, 1871.

☞ A complete file of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN may always be found at the offices of GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Advertising Agents, 40 and 41 Park Row, New York, who are authorized to represent us in that city.

THE Ku-klux law is a terrible affliction to the Democracy. Just as capital punishment is a hardship to a murderer. If a man does not want to be hanged, he must not imbue his hands in the blood of his neighbor. If the people of the South do not want brought within the rigor of the Ku-klux law, all they have to do is to behave themselves in an orderly and a loyal manner. Honest and peaceable people, law-abiding citizens, are never disturbed by the rigors of the law against burglars, assassins and ruffians. The law is only a terror to evil doers.

REVENUE REFORM.

Revenue Reform, is the watchward of some dissatisfied individuals who have been quite prominent in the Republican party, but who, not being able to control everything to their own satisfaction feel that they have not been properly appreciated, they are, therefore, much aggrieved, and propose a new party based on Revenue Reform, of which, they, the prime movers, shall be the Great Moguls. This Revenue Reform may be a very excellent thing, or, it may be a very hurtful one. Reform does not always mean improvement, it may be simply change, and change is not always for the best.

But grant that reform is needed, will any good Republicans claim that a new party is necessary to perfect that reform? Are we not willing to strive for all needed reforms within the great progressive party to which we are attached? Are the people really groaning under the burdens of taxation, either internal or from customs? No, it is only the howling of disappointed politicians that makes the least ripple in public opinion, relative to this matter, and while we frown upon all attempts to disrupt the Republican party, and jeopardize the great principles upon which it is based, by any issues of minor importance, we are hopeful and confident that there is sufficient wisdom, patriotism, and love of justice within the Republican party, not only to put down the Ku Klux Klans and protect loyal men in the South, but also to legislalate for the "greatest good to the greatest number" over all the land.

Financial Management.

One of the most certain indications of a bad cause, is to find its partisans forced to the necessity of making use of falsehoods and artifices to misrepresentations invented, and disseminated by the Democratic leaders against the financial policy of the present administration.—While on the one hand they disclaim against the Republican party on account of the war debt, and consequent taxation, corruption in office, and misappropriation of public frauds; on the other they raise the hue and cry against the existing financial policy, by which, they admit the debt is being rapidly diminished, thus refuting their own allegations of dishonesty on the part of those entrusted with the management of the national finances.

A proposition to change present burdens to the shoulders of others, has in times and countries been a highly popular and comfortable proceeding, especially among the rabble. The Democratic leaders counted upon this in 1868, when the generous proposition to pay off the entire national debt with greenbacks, and thus make money plenty, and at the same time relieve the people from the payment of the interest. This very original and fanciful plan for settling our financial difficulties and making money abundant, found a large number of advocates among those who justified secession and opposed carrying on the war, who had lost their fortunes by embarking in the confederate cause, or who, being aliens or of foreign birth, cared little for the good name or fame of the country, provided they could dwell here cheaply; to which classes, might, with great justice and propriety, be added the whole tribe of Sans Culcotts, who having neither visible or invisible means of support, find great pleasure in the contemplation of any prospect of a change from the existing order of things well knowing that they can lose nothing in any event.

Fortunately the great, intelligent, conscientious majority in 1868, could not be deceived by this thinly disguised repudiation scheme, and it is for them now to consider, whether in the future the proper basis of financial management, will be to stop reducing the debt, dismiss the present honest officials who advocate its contraction, and turn the whole machinery over to Democratic and confederate custody, or to continue the present policy of applying an honestly collected revenue to the liquidation of our honestly incurred obligations, thus sustaining the public credit and good name, and keeping the country upon its present sound financial basis.

THE BOARDER CLAIMS.

Mr. Dill, from the special committee on the border war claims, made the following report:

The select committee to whom was referred the petition of 500 citizens of Chambersburg, praying for some legislation to make compensation for the extraordinary losses of property sustained by them during the late war, make the following report:

That they have considered the subject matter of the petition referred to them and generally the question of losses by our citizens of the southern border during the war, by reason of depredations upon their property by the confederate and federal forces, and particularly by raids of the former, and will proceed to state their conclusions upon the several points involved in the question of public responsibility for those losses, with the grounds upon which their conclusions rest. Their report is made thus broad, because they understand that their investigation was not intended to be confined to the Chambersburg losses alone, but to extend to all the losses which occurred upon the border which heretofore have been subjected to examination under the authority of the state.

The first question to be considered is, whether the United States are liable for the losses upon the border, either by reason of a direct constitutional obligation or by reason of particular facts connected with the several invasions of the state or by both.

By the fourth section of the fourth article of the Constitution of the United States it is provided that the United States shall protect each of the States of the Union against invasion. This guarantee is coupled with two others—the one for protection of the several States against domestic violence upon demand of state authorities, and the other secure to them republican forms of government. Against every form of external and internal danger, accompanied by violence, this comprehensive section of guarantees was intended to protect the States, and the obligation assumed by the United States under it has been one expressed limitation, which is, that the interposition of the federal government against domestic violence must be invoked by the legislature of a State or by the executive thereof when the legislature cannot be convened. No one can doubt, upon reading these guarantees of the constitution, and duly considering the general objects for which the constitution was made, as announced in its preamble, that complete defense to the states was promised and intended thereby, and that an obligation of self-defense which, in the absence of the constitutional compact, would have rested exclusively upon the several States was thereby charged upon the federal government. It is not necessary to insist that the States respectively parted with the right of defending themselves against external danger, when imminent, or against actual invasion, but unquestionably the whole duty of defending them imposed upon the United States. Nor can it be doubted that this obligation and duty of the United States to protect each State against invasion is not confined to cases of invasion by a foreign enemy. The guarantee is expressed in general language and is without limitation. An invasion of a State from another State or association of States is as much provided against as an invasion from abroad. This is the clear conclusion to be drawn from the language of the guarantee and from considering the known reasons which dictated its insertion in the constitution. Hence Judge Story, in his work upon the constitution, section 1,818, in speaking of this guarantee, declares "that the latitude of the expression here used seems to secure each State not only against foreign hostility, but against ambitious or vindictive enterprises of its more powerful neighbors."

It is beyond dispute that the United States did not keep this guarantee of defense upon the several occasions when our border was struck by the enemy during the recent war of the rebellion. The guarantee was not kept and duties under it performed by the United States, and by reason of their default, our citizens were assailed in their peaceful homes and their property appropriated, or wasted and consumed. They were completely innocent of all blame. They had performed all their duties both to the state and federal governments by contribution of taxes, by voluntary assessments upon themselves in aid of the common defense, by the raising of troops, and by complete obedience to all the laws of the land. But their just claim—their absolute right to protection and defense against external violence—was not maintained by either of the governments to which they owed allegiance.

It is true, as a general principle, that "protection against invasion is due from every society to the parts composing it." (Story on Con., sec. 1,818). This correlative of allegiance rests upon every state, and in the absence of compact or treaty between states is exclusively a state obligation. But under our system of dual government the case is widely different, as already shown. Primarily, this obligation unquestionably rests upon the United States, and was assumed by them in the federal compact for full and valuable consideration. The contribution of state strength to the Union, and the assumption of numerous and onerous duties to the federal government by the people and government of each state constitutes the solid foundation upon which this federal obligation rests. It follows that a state may demand this protection for its citizens from the federal government in every possible case, and hence, in no case can the answer be made by or in behalf of that government that the state is bound to defend itself.

If, then, any obligation or duty rests upon a state to protect its own people against invasion, it must be considered as one to be discussed only between the state and its own citizens in view of the peculiar relations which subsist between them. The United States cannot assert any such state obligation or duty in the face of their own clear guarantee contained in the fourth article of the constitution.

In the default of the constitutional protection of the state by the United States against invasion, and of an actual defense of the state by herself (in consequence of such default), can any one doubt that the outlay incurred by the state for defensive purposes would constitute a just demand against the United States? In such case ought not the guaranteeing party to make good the outlay incurred by reason of his default, and when the state makes her demand for reimbursement would it not be most unreasonable and unjust to repudiate or reject it? But can losses incurred by the state or by her citizens in consequence of a breach of the guarantee to put upon a different footing from the outlays incurred by the state in self defense? In each case the default of the guaranteeing and protecting party is the cause and foundation of the demand. The committee can discover no limitation in such case upon the responsibility of the United States except their inability to respond to the demand. It is admitted that war ravages may be so extensive as to render indemnity to innocent sufferers impossible. The burden may be too great to be borne, and cannot, therefore, be accepted or assumed. But in the present case the plea of bankruptcy or inability cannot be interposed.

It is to be observed that the guarantee in the constitution is one in favor of the several states in their capacities as parties to the compact, and is therefore to be asserted by the states and not by individual citizens in all cases of its violation. Hence it is proper and becomes necessary, in the present instance, to examine the relation and intercourse between the state and the federal government during the war, and the conduct of each in relation to the defense of the state. Did the state perform all her duties to the federal government, and is she in a position to claim that the guarantee in question should have been kept? The answer to this question is furnished by the statutes of the commonwealth, and by the public records of the war.

The state furnished her due share of militia and volunteers under the several calls made by the President of the United States and she submitted without complaint to the vigorous execution within her limits of the conscription act of March, 1863, and its several supplements. Her due share of troops for the public service was furnished by her or drawn from her under United States laws and presidential proclamations throughout the war, and in addition thereto, in several cases of emergency, she furnished to the United States her own desensive force. At the urgent demand of the war department she allowed her border to be uncovered to the stroke of the enemy, when, by a more selfish policy, she could have secured her own protection at the peril of the common interests involved in the struggle.

But it is a material consideration in passing upon her conduct as a member of the federal Union in a time of unexampled difficulty and danger that she did not rely wholly upon the United States for her protection from external danger. In addition to a prompt, zealous and complete performance of all her duties to the common cause, she made adequate provision for defending herself, and would have wholly relieved the federal government from the performance of practical duties to her under the constitutional guarantee if that government had not interfered with her defensive arrangements and taken from her defensive force.

The report then proceeds to review the measures taken by the state for the defense of her citizens. The reserve corps was organized at a cost to the state of $3,000,000, and transferred to the federal army immediately after the Bull Run defeat, thereby exposing our borders to the enemy. In 1863 the malitia were called out to defend the exposed portions of the state, and the money advanced to pay them. The legislature subsequently legalized the payment and authorized a loan to meet it. In 1864 six regiments were organized for border defense, but were called to the Potomac to reinforce Hunter, after his defeat, and the destruction of Chambersburg was the result. An extraordinary session of the legislature was called, and $3,000,000 more appropriated for defense; but the war soon after closed, and no part of it was expended and the money paid for the reserve corps, and for the militia in 1863, was repaid to the state by the general government. The state, in the opinion of the committee, discharged her duty faithfully, but her borders were exposed, and her citizens suffered spoilation, because her defensive troops were transferred to save the Union armies.

The report then reviews the various acts of assembly from 1861 to 1868, in all eight different enactments providing for the adjudication of the claims and for the payment of a portion of them. They show that the ultimate payment of the claims by the general government was steadily kept in view by the state, and that the state has recognized her duty to procure an adjustment of them for her citizens.

The report concludes as follows:

Under the several acts above mentioned the border claims have been examined and ascertained under the sanction of state authority, and the evidence of their amount and character is upon file in the office of the attorney general. Some of those ascertained under the earlier assessments have been paid by the United States, and upon those located in Chambersburg half a million of dollars has been paid out of the state treasury under the act of 15th of February, 1866. Speaking generally, the validity and justice of the border claims have been asserted in the strongest possible manner by the state government, and the whole scope of state action concerning them points to the ultimate adjustment and payment.

The losses which are the subject of the present inquiry were caused by successive raids in 1862, 1863 and 1864, by the advance and operations of Lee's army in 1863, and by depradations and appropriations of property at several times by federal troops. As to the latter, it is to be noted that the militia, by whom some of the damages were occasioned, were mustered into the United States service before their advance to the border, and constituted a part of the federal forces. The aggregate amount of the claims cannot, with the means of information at hand, be exactly stated. In the official reports on file in the auditor general's office some of the claims are duplicated; some of those reported upon under the act of 1868 being contained in prior reports. But the sum total of the claims will not exceed two million eight hundred thousand dollars, and they will be subject to such revision as may be thought proper in case of and whenever their final payment and settlement shall be provided for. It is believed that they are held entirely by the original claimants—that they have not been assigned or transferred to other parties.

The duties which the state owes to her own citizens in the present case may be made the subject of debate. That she should take prompt and effectual action to afford or to secure to them a reasonable indemnity for their losses, ought to be admitted by all; but the particular line of action to be pursued by her may be open to question. She has already advanced or paid half a million of dollars upon the claims under the act of 1866, and has therefore a direct pecuniary interest to that amount in enforcing them against the federal government. But beyond this interest of her own, it is believed to be her duty to provide for or to obtain further indemnity to her people. She owes protection to them, and she alone can claim on their behalf and on her own the guarantees of the federal constitution.

It remains to inquire what immediate or direct relief, if any, can be furnished by the state to her claimants. She cannot assume the payment of their claims in the form of a public debt to be met by her hereafter, because the state constitution forbids the creation of a debt of such magnitude. Nor (by reason of another provision of the constitution) can she loan her credit to them in any way whatever.

But she may appropriate money from her treasury to pay the claims, in whole or in part, or may divert part of her revenue not pledged to the sinking fund and apply it to the same object. Pending the application to be made upon her by the federal government for indemnity, and before that application shall be complied with, she may appropriate money in aid of the claimants or in extinguishment of their demands. The power of the two houses to do this is complete, and their exercise of the power is wholly within their discretion. It is a clear power, but one to be exercised, if exercised at all, under a full sense of representative duty, and in full view of all those considerations of expediency and justice which pertain to the question.

But either as the representative of our people, or in her own right as the holder of claims, the state government should promptly press upon the federal government the recognition and allowance of these claims—as a matter of justice to the state, and of federal obligation under the constitution of the United States.

Have a Care for the Workingman.

We are very much mistaken in the signs of the times, if political parties are not made sensibly to feel the importance and the justice of not only taking ample care of the workingmen, but of deferring to their wishes. There are at least eighty thousand voters in the mining regions who feel that an injustice has been done them by the Legislature now in session. We do not allege that these men are right in feeling so, but we do declare that a conviction prevails among the laboring men in the mining regions that their rights have been trampled upon by the great corporations operating in those localities, and that they were ignored, denied a hearing by a legislative investigation committee. It is not a question of political privilege which agitates the mind of the miner.—He is not seeking to realize political aspirations nor grasping after the flitting honors of political preferment. Bread, BREAD, BREAD, the means of providing comfort for a family, the opportunity to live, is the sentiment which stirs men to action in the locality named, and if their feelings do not control their votes we shall be very much mistaken in the character of the men to whom we refer. You cannot persuade men who feel they have been persecuted, and it is often hard to control them in obedience to law and order when they become imbued with the conviction they are denied a fair remuneration for their labor, and in many cases robbed of what they have earned.

In the election for Auditor and Surveyor General, the eighty thousand men to whom we refer will unquestionably vote for the party which gives them the most encouragement. It is not a question of men with the miners—you cannot cajole him with appeals to his party predelictions, his attachment to the Democracy or his devotion to Republicanism. The day for this has gone by, and the party which expects to get the votes of the laboring man must do something more for him than merely pledge him its faith in a platform. It must take up his cause and defend him, or he will go to the polls and defeat it. Of course the Republican party cannot do otherwise than stand by the interests of the workingmen—demanding and unyielding until he has been righted before the law in all that is just. We repeat the admonition, that the party that cannot do this, will fail at the ballot-box.—State Journal.

—The Columbia Herald says: In 1870, the first shad was caught at this point on the 19th of April, and none of account were caught before the 26th of April. The catch last year at this place was about 50,000. It is now one week earlier than the time fishing commenced last year, and our fisherman have already caught about 20,000. The prospect is, that the catch will be double the average, and we are glad to be able to chronicle this prospect of good luck for our fishermen.

—Richard and William Laubach, while working upon the farm of John Laubach, in Lower Nazareth township, recently, came upon a serpent nest containing forty-seven snakes. The snakes were killed and the nest destroyed.

DR. CROOK'S WINE OF TAR. Established 1862

A remedy which has been tested for 10 years, and proved in thousands of case capable of curing all Diseases of the Throat and Lungs; performing many remarkable cures, merits a trial from all who are suffering from similar affections and vainly seeking relief. Will you let prejudice prevent you from being cured also?

Coughs and Colds.—The Druggists say cures them all. Asthma.—The relief and cures of it are marvelous. Bronchitis.—Every sufferer will find relief and cure. Throat Ailments require only a few doses. Lung diseases.—Has cured cases pronounced incurable. Debility.—It renovates and invigorates the system. Liver Complaint.—Most effective regulator of this organ. Dyspepsia.—Its healthy action on the stomach cures it. Appetizer.—It is health-giving and appetite-restoring. Urinary Organs.—Action on them is marked and prompt.

DR. CROOK'S WINE TAR is rich in the medicinal qualities of Tar, combined with vegetable ingredients of undoubted value, which make it unsurpassed, not only for the complaints enumerated but it rapidly restores exhausted strength, cleanses the stomach, relaxes the Liver and puts them to work, causes the food to digest, and makes pure blood, and begets a vivacity appreciated by both sound and sick. If you are afflicted in any way, we know if you try the life-giving tonic properties of Dr. Crook's Wine of Tar, you will add your testimony to its great value in correcting any "ills that flesh is heir to." Prepared only by OLIVER CROOK & CO. Sold by Druggists everywhere. 17-4t

COMPOUND FLUID Extract Catawba GRAPE PILLS.

Component Parts—Fluid Extract Rhubard and Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Juice.

For Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Bilious Affections, Sick Or Nervous Headache, Costiveness Etc. Purely Vegetable, Containing No Mercury, Minerals Or Deleterious Drugs.

H

These Pills are the most delightfully pleasant purgative, superseding caster oil, salts, magnesia etc. There is nothing more acceptable to the stomach. They give tone, and cause neither nausea nor griping pains. They are composed of the finest ingredients. After a few days' use of them, such an invigoration of the entire system takes place as to appear miraculous to the weak and enervated, whether arising from imprudence or disease. H. T. Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Pills are not sugar-coated, from the fact that sugar-coated Pills do not dissolve, but pass through the stomach without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desired effect. THE CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, being pleasant in taste and odor, do not necessitate their being sugar-coated. PRICE FIFTY CENTS PER BOX.

LADIES.

In many affections peculiar to ladies, the extract buchu is Unequalled by any other Remedy as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or schirrus state of the Uterus, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Sterility, and for all Complaints incident to the Sex, whether arising from Indiscretion or Habits of Dissipation. It is prescribed extensively by the most Eminent Physicians and Midwives for Enfeebled and Delicate Constitutions, of Both Sexes and all Ages (attended with any of the above Diseases or Symptoms.)

O

H. T. HELMBOLD'S

in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience, and no exposure. It causes a frequent desire, and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing Obstructions, Preventing and Curing Strictures of the Urethra, Allaying Pain and Inflamation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling all Poisonous matter.

Thousands who have been the victims of incompetent persons, and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they have been deceived, and that the "Poison" has, by the use of "powerful astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after Marriage.

Use HELMBOD'S EXTRACT BUCHU for all Affections and Diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. PRICE ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

L

HENRY T. HELMBOLB'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH

cannot be surpassed as a Face Wash, and will be found the only specific remedy in every species of Cutaneous Affection. It speedily eradicates Pimples Spots, Scorbutic Dryness, Indurations of the Cutaneous Membrane, etc., dispels redness and incipient inflammation, hives, rash, moth patches, dryness of scalp or skin, frost bites, and all purposes for which salves or ointments are used; restore the skin to a state of purity and softness, and insures continued healthy action to the tissue of its vessels, on which depends the agreeable clearness and vivacity of complexion so much sought and admired. But however valuable as a remedy for existing defects of the skin, H. T. Helmbold's Rose Wash has long sustained its principle claim to undounded patronage, by possessing qualities which render it a Toilet Appendage of the most Superlative and Congenial character, combining in an elegant formula those prominent requisites, safety and efficacy—the invariable accompaniments of its use—as a Preservative and Refresher of the Complexion. It is an excellent Lotion for diseases of a Syphilitic Nature, and as an injection for diseases of the Urinary Organs, arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the EXTRACTS BUCHU, SARSAPARILLA, AND CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, in such diseases as recommended, cannot be surpassed. PRICE, ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

The Great Medical Discovery!

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS,

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. Send for a circular.

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION.

Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Wednesday Morning, May 3, 1871.

Ploughing Ground When Wet.

Hardly any practice on the farm is more to be deprecated than ploughing or stirring the soil in the spring when wet. This is one of the small operations, affecting oftentimes a whole crop, and lasting injuriously through a whole season. Unless in a sandy soil, any stirring or moving by spade, plow, or harrow, when wet, tends to compress and compact its particles, when the object is or ought to be, to pulverize and make mellow. Good tillage is a manure; and stirring of wet soil is only allowable in a brickyard. No implement that we know of is capable of again opening lumps of earth to atmospheric action and influences, after they have once closed up, by compression, and become externally hardened. Any one can observe this, by moulding a lump of damp earth in their hand, when it becomes the consistence of putty.—When exposed to the air it becomes nearly as hard as stong.

Old Jethro Stone used to talk of "subterranean pasture." He contended that plants lived on the finely divided particles of soil, and the finer the division the more pasture of course. A lump of earth the size of one's fist, hardened by compression, when in a damp condition, is as unavailable for plant food, as food for a cow is when placed out of her reach. There is often a great anxiety in the spring to commence work early in the field and garden—but till the soil becomes sufficiently dry, not only is nothing gained, but much lost. The more haste, often the less speed.—The right time to plough or dig of course depends on the nature and quality of the soil, about which the owner should be the best judge.

Mixing Ground.

There often exists, on the same farm, materials entirely separated from each other, which if mixed together, would add greatly to the fertility of the land. A neighboring farmer had seven or eight acres excellent black muck or peat, averaging several feet deep, which might have been underdrained at a moderate expense, and rendered a fertile field, but which the owner suffered to lie idle and useless year after year.—Much of his adjacent farm consisted of dry ridges and knolls, out of which the vegetable matter had entirely or nearly disappeared, which might have been much benefitted by this muck.—The work could have been done in winter at little expense—but there, for half a lifetime, lay the great muck bed under the water, and the dry ridges parching in the summer sun.—All that was needed was mixing the different materials of the farm. Sub soils are frequently quite different in character from the worked soil above. We once saw a striking illustration of this difference. An open ditch, some two feet deep and many rons in length had been dug to drain a small pond. The earth taken from this ditch was thrown by the shovel and scattered back a rod or more on each side over the surface of the field, which was afterwards sown with wheat. The succeeding summer was unfavorable to this crop; and while the rest did not average a product of more than five bushels per acre, the portion which had been dressed with subsoil, yielded by estimate, at the rate of twenty bushels.

SODDING.—Thousands of dollars are expended every year in sodding spaces in yards, gardens, &c., where hundreds of dollars would more than pay and secure a much better sod. Instead of hauling turf sometimes for a mile or two, containing generally old weeds and varieties of course grasses which injure the appearance of the grass plat, prepare the ground as for a garden crop and sow the fine mixed seeds prepared for lawns add to be purchased at the agricultural and our best grocery stores. In a month the plat will be beautiful, fresh and green, and in two or three months it will be all that the most fastidious could desire and incomparably superior to any old turf. Such a grass plot or lawn can be secured with a tithe of the trouble and expense of the old, word out weedy soil.

The following recipe for the cure of inflamed eyes is given: "Take a potato, and after quartering it, grate the heart as fine as possible, and place the gratting between a piece of cambric muslin. Plate the poultice over the eyes inflamed, and keep it there fifteen minutes. Continue the operation three successive nights, and a perfect cure ensues." It is worth trying by those afflicted with sore eyes.

HOME NEWS.

SUNFLOWERS.—Plant sunflowers if there is any place about your house where water is thrown out, and likely to become malarious. This plant has the power of absorbing malaria and purifying the atmosphere.

INJURY.—Mrs. Hoffer, wife of John Hoffer, one of our most enterprising merchants, received a serious injury in one of her ankles a few days since. Dr. G. L. Potter adjusted the injury and she is now doing well.

CHANGE.—Mr. Joseph Devling having purchased the interest of Major Forster, will take full control of that popular store. He is now in the city purchasing a large stock of goods, We will have more to say next week.

FIRE.—The dwelling house of Hugh White, in the Borough of Beech Creek, was discovered to be on fire about one o'clock, p. m., on Monday the 1st inst. The fire had made such progress before it was discovered as to make the saving of the building an impossibility. Nearly all the contents, however, were saved. The loss is estimated at $500. It is thought the fire originated from sparks from the flue. There was no insurance.

ACCIDENT.—Ellen Bartley, daughter of H. Y. Bartley, and Maggie, daughter of Simeon Haupt, on Friday last, fell from the upper porch of Mr. Haupt's house, Maggie falling a distance of 22 feet and Ellen swinging in fell on the second porch. Dr. George L. Potter was immediately called in, and pronounced them not seriously injured. It was a miracle, however that they were not killed. The little girls we understand are now going to school again.

RETURNED.—In another column of the Republican will be seen the Professional Card of Ira C. Mitchell, Esq. Mr. Mitchell after an absence of about seven years has returned to our town and resumed the practice of the law. He is highly educated—a well read lawyer, and stood at the bar in this county eight years ago as a first class lawyer both by nature and education. We welcome him back and know that his talents will command respect as well as an abundance of business.

FIRE.—On Saturday evening last, about 9½ o'clock, the saw mill belonging to Cline Quiggle, about two miles from the Beech Creek station, on the B. E. V. R. R. was discovered to be on fire and so far gone as to render all efforts to save it useless. The mill was burned to the ground with one or two piles of lumber. The loss is about $5000, and said to be fully covered by insurance. It is believed that the mill was set on fire, as no person had been at it that evening nor had it been running for two days prior to the fire.

MALICIOUS.—Some malicious person or persons on Friday last, turned out of the stable of Isaac Haupt, Esq., a valuable colt belonging to him. Mr. Haupt offers a reward of $10,00 to any person who will give him the information which will lead to the arrest of the guilty party or parties. It is a very dangerous thing to have such horses running at large and the great wonder is that nobody was killed or injured. The horse or colt was finally caught by the hostler at the Brockerhoff House, and safely stabled until Mr. Haupt called for him and paid charges. Find out the sinner.

GENIUS.—We have in our town a first class genius, in the person of our old friend D. I. Pruner, Esq. It is hardly two years since he invented one of the best Hydrants in the United States. Now he has invented a machine for making horse shoes. It is a most ingenious invention and when in full working order will make forty horse shoes in one minute. Its real capacity will be 20 in one minute. If all our people were as enterprising as D. I. Pruner, Esq., it would not be long until our town would be equal to ancient ATHENS or ROME. We hope our capatalists will take hold of this invention and double their already handsome fortunes.

MEN WANTED.—The Jersey Shore Vidette, says: There are, we understand, one hundred and fifteen marriageable girls in Jersey Shore, not counting the widows, of which there are a number. gay, good looking, intelligent, wise and witty, and hired girls, many of whom are the most deserving and best qualified for wives. To meet this demand, there are but sixty-six marriageable men, and among them are several, we regret to say, who exhibit unmistakable symptoms of chronic bachelorism. What is to be done? We feel for the girls and the widows. We are fond of old maids, but cannot say we like to see so great an increase in the number. In addition to the supply already in the market, we have a large crop coming in every year, which will make the proportion still greater.

DR. HITCHCOCK'S new and complete Analysis of the Holy Bible. In this comprehensive volume we have the entire Bible arranged in subjects greatly facilitating the study and promoting the better understanding of the Divine word. Having examined the above work we recommend it to our people. The agent E. W. Smith, is now in town and will remain a short time to take orders for this work. No one should fail of securing it. We append the following testimonials:

I should rejoice to see a copy of this very valuable work, Hichcock's Analysis of the Bible, in every family of my parish.

W. T. WYLIE,
Pastor of Presbyterian Church.

I fully concur in the above.

R. CRITTENDEN.

I think Hitchcock's Analysis of the Bible a most valuable and useful book for the Bible student.

HENRY J. W. ALLEN,
Pastor of St. John's Church.

I have examined Hitchcock's Analysis of the Bible and find it to be a work of great value, and most gladly recommend it to all. JAS. MULLEN.
Pastor of M. E. Church.

BELLEFONTE, May 1, 1871.

In the above I fully concur.

D. M. WOLF,
Pastor of Reformed Church.

We believe Hitchcock's Analysis of the Bible to be the most thorough and complete work in existence.

SNOW SHOE ITEMS.—The Rail Road Company have commenced operations at their new mines, No. 5. The coal is run from from the mines to the railroad near a quarter of a mile down an inclined plane. The company are building a number of new houses at their mines. Report says they intend putting up at least twenty houses.

—Edward Smith has purchased the dwelling house now occupied by Sam'l Boyer.

—James P. Lucas has erected a neat dwelling house and shop a little south of May and Loeb's store.

—John G. Uzzle has just erected a fine large three story building near his hotel.

—We observed on Saturday a car loaded with rolls of grass sods standing on the siding of the Snow Shoe Railroad Co., on inquiry we found these sods were cut in Snow Shoe and forwarded to parties here for sodding their yards.

—The rain of last week raised the streams to a good rafting order, enabling our Lumbermen friends in Burnside and Snow Shoe townships to run off all their lumber and logs. We understand there has been 62 rafts of timber and Boards sent to market this season from Burnside township and by the following persons:

Wm. & Harbeson Holt sent 6 Timber Rafts.
Capt. Wm. White sent 4 Timber and 2 Board Rafts.
James K. Boak, dec'd sent 11 Timber Rafts.
Mrs. Sarah Loy sent 3 Timber Rafts.
Rhoads & Smith sent 16 Timber and 6 Board Rafts.
Dr. M. Stewart sent 2 Timber and 8 Board Rafts.
Martin Murphy sent 2 Timber Rafts.
Peter Etters sent 2 Timber Rafts.

JNO. T. JOHNSTON, P. M.

ALMOST A FATAL MISTAKE.—A man named Isaac Rothrock, living near Grahampton, Clearfield county, arose from his slumbers on Saturday morning, 16th ult., and as was his custom proceeded to the cupboard to get his "bitters." Being, no doubt, aware that "there is many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip," and desirous that there should be none in his case, he determined to take it "by word of mouth," i. e. out of the bottle, and seizing it he took a long and strong pull. Imagine his horror, when, upon setting the bottle down, he discovered he had treated his inner man to a draught of poison for bedbugs instead of a poison for men. Two bottles, much alike, were in the cupboard, one containing whiskey; and the other the quicker poison, and in his haste he had taken a drink out of the wrong bottle. Physicians were called in, antidotes were applied, and at last accounts he was slowly recovering.—Philipsburg Journal.

A LARGE assortment of Wall Paper just received at Zeller & Jarrett's Drug Store, Bishop Street.

THE following letter was handed us by Maj. Gen. Jas. A. Beaver, for publication. The letter explains itself:—

HEAD QRS. NAT'L GUARD OF PENN'A.
ADJ'T GEN. OFFICE, HARRISBURG, PA.,
April 10th, 1871.

To Maj. General James A. Beaver, commanding 14th Div. N. G. of Penn'a., Bellefonte, Pa.

General:—Our Commonwealth imperatively requires, within her own borders, a well equipped and organized militia. Were anything else wanting, events which have transpired within the last few days, clearly demonstrate this necessity. Her community of interests and the business enterprises of her people have come to be such, that a serious riot, in any locality, awakens general apprehension, as no single important business pursuit can be thus even temporarily disturbed without injuriously affecting others.

Our Company organizations should, therefore, be increased, numerically, to the maximum, and each Battalion and Regiment filled to its proper standard.

I am directed, by the Commander in Chief, to call the attention of Major Generals and Brigade Commanders to this important subject and to request their active and earnest efforts to effect this desirable result. We have inexhaustable military material, and the proper spirit animates our people to accomplish the organization of an efficient Volunteer force.

The Major Generals and Brigade Commanders of the National Guard, are, without exception, officers of intelligence and military experience. Her Line officers, too, have generally, seen active service, and it cannot be questioned that their zealous co-operation would create a State Military power which would reflect credit upon themselves and honor on the Commonwealth.

This subject is, earnestly, submitted to your consideration.

By order of the Governor,

A. L. RUSSELL,
Adjutant General of Penna.

THE FRESH MEATS AT THE NEW BELLEFONTE MARKET.—Mr. E. C. Humes, Esq., sold his entire lot of grain-fed beeves to the Messrs. Kurtz & Straub, of this place, on Monday last. These are of the finest steers this county ever produced by grain-feeding, and equal, if not superior, to the best ever fattened by the Myers', or slaughtered by the Loeb's, formerly of this place. These latter gentlemen took great pride in furnishing our citizens with meats such as would do honor to any city market; and Messrs Kurtz & Straub are not in the slightest degree behind their energetic predecessors in their determination to furnish the very best of all meats. On Thursday, the 10th inst., if the weather permits, Kurtz & Straub will exhibit the Humes cattle, on general parade, to the citizens of Bellefonte, after which they will be served in the shape of dressed beef by their accomplished butcher, Mr. Tyson, in the New Bellefonte Meat and Vegetable Market.

THE PATENT RIGHT SWINDLE.—How Farmers are deceived by Signing False Notes of Hand.—Among the many swindling operations of the day the patent right dodge is largely practiced on farmers, and we have heard of several cases in this county within a year. The following note is a copy of one now in use by these sharpers. It will appear at first sight to be perfectly simple, and no person, wishing to take an agency for any of the many patents, would hesitate to sign it:

SMITHVILLE, PA., April 15th, 1871.

One year after date, I promise to pay A. Sharp or bearer ten dollars when I sell by order, Two Hundred and Seventy-five dollars worth of seeding Machines for value received, at ten per cent. per annum, said Ten Dollars, when due, is payable at Smithville, Pa.

JOHN SMITH, Agent for A. Brown.

Witness: JOHN DOE.

Now, having read the above note carefully, and supposing it to be all right for $10, just cut it in two between the words or, and bearer, in the first line, and you will find that the left hand piece is a perfect note for $275. Having induced a farmer to accept an agency, as specified in the original note, and having obtained his signature, the sharper departs. He then cuts off the right hand portion, proceeds to the nearest broker or banker, to whom he offers to sell the note at a discount on the plea of needing the money. The signer is generally a responsible person, well known to the business men of the village, and the note is purchased. When the note falls due it is presented for collection, and as the signatures are indisputable, the horrified farmer is compelled to pay $275, when he only supposed that he owed $10.

This is one of the most infamous of all tricks of deception, and is largely practiced throughout the country. Farmers should cut this out and preserve i carefully, in order to guard against being imposed on by unscrupulous scoundrels.—Gazette and Bulletin.

WOOD'S HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE.—Most heartily do we welcome the May number of Wood's Household Magazine. We hardly recognized it as it entered our office in its new spring clothes; but while admiring the color and quality of its dress, we were delighted to discover that it adorned our old friend. The improvements which have followed thick and fast in this Magazine, show the enterprise and success of its publishers. The heavy paper is a great addition as well as the cover, and its typographical appearance is unsurpassed.

Its contents are unexceptionable, and among its list of contributors are some of the most noted writers of the day. We do not understand how Mr. Wood is able to do so much for so little money—nevertheless we are very glad to acknowledge his achievements. The Magazine is furnished for the small sum of one dollar. Specimen copy free. Address S. S. Wood & Co., Newburgh, N. Y.

PORT WINE.—There have been, at various times, articles introduced to the public under the name of Port wine, strongly recommended for medicinal purposes which are calculated to do more harm than good, having little else than the name to recommend them. Such however, is not the case with the Port Grape Wine, advertised by Mr. A. Speer, of Passaic, N. J. We have seen his vineyard, and the wine in process of manufacture, and know it to be the pure juice of the grape.

We have also been through his cellars, which never contain less than sixty thousand gallons, and seen casks piled on casks maturing. Mr. Speer does not bottle or sell any under four years of age.—Peoria Transcript.

The above can be had of our druggists.

MONEY invested at Burnside & Thomas' is a clear saving of from 20 to 30 per cent.

LINES written on the death of Frances M. E. Twitmire, only daughter of Joseph and Jane Twitmire, who died march 28th 1871, aged twelve years four months and seven days.

I leave the land of spirits pure,
And come to earth again;
With healing on my viewless wings.
With balm for every pain.
I seek the home where late they smiled,
So tenderly on me;
And find them weeping o'er the clay,
Where I have ceased to be.

They call me by the tender names,
Familiar to my ear;
Then turn with sickening hearts away,
Unthinking I am near.
From Heaven's cloudless realms I've came,
A mission to fulfill;
To shed the peace that God can give,
O'er those who mourn me still.

Oh, could ye see the infant throng,
That round this alter stands;
With golden harps to tune his praise.
And palms within their hands.
Could ye but see our white array,
So free from spot or stain;
Ye would not call your loved one back,
To weep on earth again.

Could ye but know whose arms enfold,
Your little darling now;
Could ye but see the crown of light,
That sparkles on her brow.
Could ye but feel the rapture pure,
That wakes her angel strain;
Ye would not surely call her back
To sigh on earth again.

Could ye recline within the shade,
Of our sweet eden bower;
And see my playmates wreath
Their little brows with flowers.
Could you but know how free we are,
From sickness, sin or pain;
Ye would not, could not, call me back,
To sin and death again.

Joy, joy, the precious tear drops flow,
I've touched their willing springs;
And God has sent the holy balm
Of healing on my wings.
Peace for the spirits, reconciled
To his unerring will;
Peace to the hearts that bend, not brake,
That weep, yet trust him still.

Ah mid the flight of weary years,
I oft to earth will come;
To shed the rays of Heavenly hope
Around my former home.
I'll watch my parents couch, beside,
I'll be with them in prayer;
Then bear their wishes up to heaven,
And plead those wishes there.

And when the cord of life is rent
That seperate us now;
When death his signet seal hath set
Upon each parent brow;
My harp shall be the first to hymn
Their welcome to the skies;
My form shall be the first to meet
Their rapture-beaming eyes.

Farewell, farewell, my mission's done,
I have not come in vain;
Ye would not, if ye could recall
My soul to earth again.
Live on for those who yet remain,
To need your loving care;
Live on, your hearts will not be dark
For God's own light is there.
